

The first two months of school were busy!

November 2009

Hello and happy Fall! Our first grade has worked hard and learned lots these last two months. In math, we have been working to find the sums and differences in addition and subtraction sentences and story problems. During our reading time we have read and discussed animals both tame and wild; all while learning and identifying all of the short vowel sounds!

During our writing workshop we have begun to learn about the writing process and are using it to begin personal narratives. Each student will publish their narrative for the Show of Work. The Show of Work is scheduled during half day Parent Conferences on November 24th. Mark your calendars!

These are pictures from a Social Studies project on Building Community. Students walked around the school neighborhood taking pictures of services and problems/ solutions in the community. Students will be using these pictures for a writing and art project.
