Shopping at the Outlets

Is shopping fun to you? Well I think shopping is exciting. During the weekend I went to the outlets. It was the most magnificent thing that has ever happened to me. Holding the heavy bags around was so tiring, but I cannot complain because it was all of my things.

The day I went to the outlets I woke up with a pillow to my head. I was so tired; we woke up at 7:00am. My mom was the person who woke me up. I got up, brushed my teeth and washed my face. After that I got dressed into my jeans, t-shirt, and sweater. I then went into the kitchen to cook some breakfast. I had eggs, bacon, and O.J. It was really appetizing. A little later I put on my shoes, did my hair, and put my coat on. Then everyone else put their coats on. When my mom put her coat on and started the car we were ready to go.

Driving to the outlets took a long time and it was a very exhausting ride. I thought the drive would take only an hour and a half, but it was really a two hour long trip. When we got there we went into the Gap store. It was a great a feeling to get new Gap sweat pants. Ruzi was the next store we went into. I got some of my clothes for next year from Ruzi. The next store we took over was Aeropostale. I was so happy to get new things, but so tired at the end of the shopping day. I got tons of clothes, how cool!

At the end of our family trip my mom took us out to go Golden Corral. We were all so grateful. I had Mac & Cheese with pork chops. It tasted delicious! Ten minutes later I got ice cream. The ice cream was even better than the Mac & Cheese with pork chops. Finally, we went home around 4:30pm. While driving home I said "Boy mom you really like to shop." As soon as I was done talking to my mother I took a long relaxing car nap.

To me this shopping experience was the best one. I had a fun family shopping trip. I got lots of cool stuff. It was amazing. I loved it so much.
